

Nicholas Kottyan

Vice Chairman, Chairman Elect

CEO
DataChambers LLP

Before founding Peak 10, he served as senior vice president for CT Communications, Inc (CTC) a publicly traded local telephone company located in Concord, N.C., where he was responsible for the company's expansion into several competitive businesses including, Long Distance Service, Wireless PCS service, and Internet Service. Nicholas has a history for building and running companies. He founded Teledial America of North Carolina and successfully sold the company to LCI International (now a part of Qwest) and served as president and chief executive officer of Phone America of Carolina, when LDDS (now MCI) acquired the organization. Mr. Kottyan has a bachelor of science in Communications Equipment Technology from Wayland Baptist University and an MBA from Pfeiffer University.