GET ENGAGED WITH NCTA'S COUNCILS

NCTA's Councils are action oriented special interest groups that drive issues impacting the technology industry. Each of the five councils encourage advocacy, interaction, information share, community building, thought leadership, empowerment, action/outreach and peer engagement, which also provides an excellent opportunity to develop valuable relationships within the NCTA community.

You can be as active as you would like. You can participate to receive important updates; you can attend any or all of the meetings throughout the year; or members can take leadership roles as co-chairs and project team leads.

We look forward to your participation! There is no limit to your involvement— you can sign up for all five!

What councils are available in 2010 and how can I sign up to participate?

What are the benefits of Council participation?

- Be in the know – Learn the issues and stay informed
- Build your network – work collaboratively with peers and executives
- Bridge to leaders – elected leaders and public officials engage with industry through NCTA; executives are active leaders and participants in Council work
- Be a thought leader – help craft strategy and legislation to build the technology community and knowledge economy in NC
- Become an active participant – give of your time and talent, reap the benefits of involvement

Is your company interested in supporting a Council through sponsorship or hosting a meeting?
